Alense Her

Can you believe that another month has gone and its June already! June has bought sunshine, flowers of all colours of the rainbow, and for some of you it marks a summer break. Huge congratulations for getting through submissions; we encourage those of you who are still studying, and hope you continue to keep safe during lockdown.

Although the weather has been warm, it has also unveiled injustice that still affects the black community, with the death of George Floyd. As your SU, we are standing alongside many of you, and the world, to fight against social injustice, inequality, and systematic racism that people of colour face. We will continue to share content on how you can help; we want to encourage a collective voice to bring power to those whose voices have not been heard for so long. As we celebrate Pride this month, remember to raise and celebrate the voices of black individuals within the LGBT+ community, because Black Lives Matter and together we are stronger. Happy summer and happy Pride to you all!

Very best wishes, Jordan and Stella
